Mammung

What the audience learnt

"All the knowledge is there [with Noongar people] and it's been there for tens of thousands of years. We just need to ask the question and listen to the answers..."

- Amanda

"You don't always have to be a big part of something to make a big difference. Sometimes you've just got to be small and work together."

- Angus

"[The film] shows what can be in modern Australia if Indigenous and non-Indigenous people converse and listen to one another."
-Dylan

"Just blown away by the film...hearing that there were [Noongar] people that, through song lines, knew things that a scientist took 40 years to discover. And then he said, 'If only I'd asked Auntie Lynette, I would have found that out so easily!'"
-Gerry

"Everything is connected.
How we care for our country is universal but it's really special and important that we're doing it here."
-Izzy

"To recognise the importance of listening and the importance of really hearing...
Listening to others and particularly the First Nations people, the knowledge that they've got and carried with them through the generations was remarkable. "
-Jackie

"The reciprocal nature of the relationship between humans and animals and the beautiful relationship between the Noongar people and Mammung the whale."
-Suzie

"The connection between the Indigenous and non-Indigenous people who care about Country and care about nature, the ways we can learn from each other and ways that we can continue to learn and grow."

-Paul
